

FELCO MOTION SA

Short description:

The company FELCO Motion SA (Part of the Flisch Holding group) is focused on the design, development and assembly of portable or transportable electric pruning shears (secateurs) and all other type of portable actuators. These tools are ergonomically designed to assist particularly to wine or fruit tree growers. The aim of these solutions is to improve productivity, reduce the drudgery and enhance the automation pertaining to certain repetitive or tedious tasks, with the support of portable or transportable technology.

Partnership / cooperation possibilities:

The company is primarily looking for new partnerships, which could provide technologies and processes for improved productivity of tool users. This could be technologies based on various data about the process of germination, growth, pruning, maturity but also about soil quality, irrigation, treatment, disease occurrence and progression. Any of this information may be used for the decision-making software, which will allow simplification in agricultural management, optimization of resources (including personnel) and maximization of harvest with optimized cost.
